

Reflection on PC Assembly Lab

The lab session is fun and I would like to try again. It is my first time taking apart a PC and putting them back together. With the help of my groupmates and lab assistants, we get to finish quite fast. Of course, we had to follow the steps in order for the PC to be piece back correctly. I would like to save this skill for the future when I get to build my own dream PC.